ABSTRACT OF DISCLOSURE

A system that provides information quickly and easily about parts. The system includes a database storing information about parts and their unit prices, amount of money, products, and environment linked with each other, and a database storing materials and their unit prices, amount of money, products, and environment. By inputting a condition, information satisfying the condition can be retrieved from each database and provided.

56877 v1